old-fashioned

organizations and institutions
Capitalize the full names of organizations and institutions: the American Medical Association; First Presbyterian Church; General Motors Co.; Harvard University, Harvard University Medical School; the Procrastinators Club; the Society of Professional Journalists.

Retain capitalization if Co., Corp. or a similar word is deleted from the full proper name: General Motors.

Subsidiaries: Capitalize the names of major subdivisions: the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors.

Internal elements: Use lowercase for internal elements of an organization when they have names that are widely used generic terms: the board of directors of General Motors, the board of trustees of Columbia University, the history department of Harvard University, the sports department of the Daily Citizen-Leader.

Capitalize internal elements of an organization when they have names that are not widely used generic terms: the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches, the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association, the House of Bishops and House of Deputies of the Episcopal Church.

Flip-flopped names: Retain capital letters when commonly accepted practice flops a name to delete the word of: Harvard School of Dental Medicine, Harvard Dental School. Do not, however, flop formal names that are known to the public with the word of: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for example, not Massachusetts Technology Institute.
Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Forces (OCDETF)

Osama bin Laden

overrepresenting

parentheses
When introducing a shortened form of a name, there is no need to use parentheses. Just use the shortened form on later references. For example, refer to Chase Bank as just Chase after the first reference.

passport

pastor
Lowercase “pastor.” Do not use pastor before an individual’s name. However, if it appears before a name in a quotation, capitalize it.

people/persons
Unless it is a direct quote, always use people instead of persons, except in the case of politically exposed persons.

percentage
When writing percentages, write the number and use the percent symbol, with no space. For example: 10%.

podcasts
Place quotation marks around podcast titles. For instance, listen to Kieran Beer’s podcast, “Financial Crime Matters.”

policymakers politically exposed person (PEP)

When referencing several, use politically exposed persons.

prefixes
Generally, we do not hyphenate when using a prefix with a word starting with a consonant. But there are exceptions. Three rules are constant:

— Use a hyphen if the prefix ends in a vowel and the word that follows begins with the same vowel. Exceptions: cooperate, coordinate, and double-e combinations such as preestablish, preeminent, preeclampsia, preempt.
— Use a hyphen if the word that follows is capitalized.
— Use a hyphen to join doubled prefixes: sub-subparagraph.
